

Medico Legal Services and Reports

Medico-legals services are usually requested by solicitors requiring such documentation in the context of a legal challenge. The assessment process is impartial and provides an opinion regarding the questions posed by the legal representation as outlined in the contact letter. The interaction is not therapeutic in nature, although recommendations may refer to the efficacy of counseling as a possible future course of action.

Pen and Paper assessment tools are frequently employed in conjunction with an interview format in order to provide an objective baseline for interpretation. The process can take up to four hours, with commensurate time employed in report writing.
